STATEMENT OF SUPPORT

John S. James Co. was certified into the Customs Trade Partnership Against Terrorism (CTPAT) program in 2003 as a United States customhouse broker. CTPAT is a voluntary program in which participants partner with U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) with the goal of strengthening supply chain security.

As a member of CTPAT, John S. James Co.'s executive leadership and management is committed to continually improved security procedures, that meet or exceed the minimum-security criteria as a CTPAT partner, throughout our operations. These procedures are designed to enhance the security of our facilities, people, cargo shipping, cargo receiving, and cargo tracking processes. Our goal is to prevent cargo loss and cargo tampering, and to protect the supply chain from the introduction of illegal merchandise, drug trafficking, terrorism, human smuggling, forced labor and moving illegal contraband. We encourage each member of the supply chain to be aware of tactics to identify and prevent money laundering and terrorism financing activities. It is essential to employ enhanced cyber security and prevent social engineering vulnerabilities.

We encourage awareness of securing the supply chain through CTPAT participation. The CTPAT program has a comprehensive library of web offerings to assist the trade community as a true partner in supply chain security. We invite you to review the additions found here:
